

MAISON PROUST

MARAIS, PARIS
DESIGNER: JACQUES GARCIA

Maison Proust, Hotel & Spa La Mer in Le Marais, is a jewel of a boutique hotel designed by the renowned interior architect Jacques Garcia (of Hôtel Costes and La Mamounia fame). With just 23 rooms and suites, the hotel channels Marcel Proust's world through deep-blue velvet banquettes, gilt mirrors, period fireplaces and ethereal lighting.

Nestled within it, the hotel's bar is an enveloping masterclass in Belle Époque romanticism, with a cosy, club-like atmosphere of wood panelling, antique mirrors and chandeliers. Signature cocktails are crafted by Colin Field (formerly of the Ritz Paris), with the backbar a beautifully lit cabinet surrounded by theatrical carvings. It's an elegant salon in the days of Marcel Proust – yet here it is, right in the heart of modern Paris.
